Pastor's Corner: The Power of Tact (The tongue of the righteous is choice silver Prov.10:20a)

Recently a police force was reported to have rushed onto a crime scene in which there were people being held hostage. But due to the fact the small town law enforcement department didn't have a tactical unit their haste to resolve the situation ended up in the unnecessary deaths of two hostages. Listen, what we know about a situation doesn't give us the clearance to approach it without great tact and great tactics.

Great leaders demonstrate great caution. They are great at understanding the gravity of a situation and greater at addressing it tactfully.

When Nathan the prophet confronted David he could have easily came to the king with a strong word of condemnation due to his majesty's spiritual depravity. Yet to his credit Nathan conveyed a message of conviction to the backsliding king in such a graceful way that David could not be mad at anyone but himself

Naomi understood that Ruth had great potential in landing Boaz as her husband and kinsmen redeemer. However, Naomi also knew that potential was nothing if it wasn't connected to a tactful plan. After teaching her how to present herself to him Naomi enabled Ruth not only to break the bondage of her widowhood, but she also empowered her to get connected to the family tree of Christ Himself.

Likewise, Esther was inspired to tactfully talk to her husband, the king, in such a graceful way that she was able to deliver her people from impending genocide.

When we talk tactfully we don't only have the potential to bless our own destinies, but the destinies of those who in our sphere of influence

Are you great at skillfully addressing greatly delicate situations? Well, great! Maybe God is trying to make you into a great leader! Great leaders demonstrate great caution. They are great at understanding the gravity of a situation and greater at addressing it tactfully.

Let's always remember that just because we have revelation about a situation doesn't mean that we know how to address it. Today as always let's use our eyes, let's use our ears, let's use our hearts, and let's use our prayers. When or if God gives us the green light to go; let's then make sure we use tact.
